

This design had an interesting journey and each room had enough space while being able to navigate through it with ease. The issue of having to levels would affect the way each room is used and it may lead to congestion as people would stay on one level so allowing one level for the entire space may be an option.